This data can be taken into account there in the determination of probability values (scoring).

Other Recipients

In addition, LogPay may transfer your data to other recipients, such as authorities to comply with legal obligations, court or governmental orders (eg supervisory authorities, financial authorities, law enforcement agencies) or those entities for which you have given consent to transfer data.

Transfer to a third country or international organisation

Data is transferred to bodies in countries outside the European Union (so-called third countries) if

- it is necessary for the execution of your orders or the fulfilment of the contract
- it is required by law, or
- you have given your consent to LogPay.

Duration of Data Storage

LogPay processes your data as long as this is necessary to fulfill the above mentioned purposes. It may happen that personal data is kept for the time during which claims can be made against LogPay (legal limitation period of three or up to thirty years). We also store your data as far as we are legally obliged to do so. Corresponding proof and retention obligations arise from the Commercial Code, the Tax Code and the Money Laundering Act, among others. The storage periods are up to ten years.

Rights of affected Person

You have the right to request information from LogPay at any time about the data stored about you at LogPay (Art. 15 GDPR). In addition, you have the right to demand correction under the conditions of Art. 16 GDPR and/or deletion under the conditions of Art. 17 GDPR and/or restriction of processing under the conditions of Art. 18 GDPR. Furthermore, under the conditions of Art. 20 GDPR, you can request data transfer at any time and/or, under the conditions of Art. 21 GDPR, you can object to the processing of your personal data at any time with effect for the future.

You can revoke your consent to the processing of data at any time to LogPay. The revocation, however, is generally only effective for the future. Processing that took place before the revocation is not affected.

Do you have an obligation to provide data?

As part of the business relationship with LogPay, you must provide the data that is necessary for the establishment, implementation and termination of a business relationship and the fulfillment of the associated contractual obligations or that LogPay is obliged to collect. Without this data, LogPay will generally not be able to conclude the contract with you, execute an order or perform an existing contract, so that it may have to terminate the contract.

Automated decision making

For the establishment and execution of the business relationship, LogPay generally does not use automated decision making in accordance with Art. 22 GDPR, with the exception of the business unit Mobility Services (see below). Should LogPay use these procedures in individual cases, it will inform you separately, if this is required by law.

The decision as to whether risky payment methods (e.g. SEPA direct debit) are possible for LogPay in the business unit Mobility Services is based on an automated decision, so that a manual check of your details by a LogPay employee does not take place separately. During the automated decision your given data will be compared with those of a credit agency and/or your score will be compared with a threshold value set by us. If certain data deviate from those of the credit agency, if no score value was transmitted to us or if your score value does not reach our limit value, certain payment methods are not possible for you. Information available from you about your previous payment history is also taken into account. LogPay uses the automated decision alone to protect itself from possible payment defaults.

With regard to the automated individual decision, you have the right, in accordance with Art. 22 para. 3 GDPR, to have a person intervene on the part of the person responsible, to present his or her own standpoint and to challenge the decision.

Profiling

LogPay processes your data partially automated with the aim of evaluating certain personal aspects (profiling). The LogPay uses profiling in the following cases, for example:

- Due to legal and regulatory requirements, LogPay is obliged to combat money laundering and terrorist financing. In this context, data evaluations (e.g. in payment transactions) are also carried out.

- Within the scope of the assessment of your creditworthiness, we use information from credit agencies as well as experience from the previous business relationship or the previous debt relationship with you. In the case of corporate customers, additional data is also included, such as industry, annual results and financial situation.
- In order to be able to inform and advise you specifically about products, LogPay uses evaluation tools. These enable needs-based communication and advertising, including market and opinion research.

Right of Objection

Right of objection in individual cases

You have the right to object at any time, for reasons arising from your situation, to the processing of personal data relating to you which is carried out on the basis of Art. 6 para. 1 lit. e GDPR (data processing in the public interest) and Art. 6 para. 1 lit. f GDPR (data processing based on a balancing of interests); this also applies to profiling within the meaning of Art. 4 para. 4 GDPR based on this provision.

If you lodge an objection, we will no longer process your personal data unless we can demonstrate compelling reasons for processing that are worthy of protection and outweigh your interests, rights and freedoms, or unless the processing serves to assert, exercise or defend legal claims.

Right to object to the processing of data for direct marketing purposes

In individual cases we process your personal data in order to carry out direct advertising. You have the right to object, at any time, to the processing of personal data concerning you for the purpose of such direct marketing, including profiling, to the extent it is connected with such direct marketing.

If you object to processing for the purposes of direct marketing, we will no longer process your personal data for those purposes.

You have the opportunity to complain to your local or in other way competent supervisory authority about data protection issues.
